EDITORIAL

As new Editor I would like to record my thanks to my predecessor, Pete Mc. Lindon, for his advice and help in my new task and to Frank Johnson and Earry Dooley who will be assisting me.

My ain is to keep our Newsletter both informative and entertaining. To achieve this I will be dependent to a large extent upon information received from the members as well as the Committee. I hope, therefore to rec eive throughout the coming year, numerous "Ramblerites", Ramble Narratives, Reports on Social Activities, as well as any items of general interest suitable for publication.

We have a larger membership now. The Club can profit from it by keeping all members well informed of what is going on in the Club. I would like to ask of the new Committee that they keep planning a little ahead so that I can publicize, beforehand, forthcoming social & rambling events with a view to a greater participation by the membership. This can sometimes be difficult I know but the effort will be well worth it!

There has been recent criticism that as a Catholic Club, we have been ignoring religious aspects. I do not think this is entirely justified. However, I intend to keep a section open for affairs of religious interest e.g.current affairs in the Church or events in the Archdiocese which ramblers may wish to bring to general notice etc.

notice etc. After this issue, we will no longer have the nimble fingers of Daphne at our disposal as Newsletter typist, although she will continue as General Secretary. Her grand work in the past, for which we are very grateful, deserves a note of thanks. If you can type and are prepared to type out a few stencils each month for the Newsletter please let me know. I will be pleasd if we can have at least 2 typists as then the work will be light. "THE RAMBLERS NEED YOU".

"UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT"

Your Committee for 1975/76, following the Annual General Meeting of 9th October 1975, is as follows: C. Kelly, G. Penlington (Vice Presidents), C. Dobbin, H. Burns (Trustees), F. Mullin (Chairman), P. Glenn (Vice Chairman), D. Kenna (Gen. Secretary), P. Unsworth (Asst. Secretary), G. Penlington (Treasurer), A. Kupiec (Registrar), D. Williams (Asst. Registrar), E. Kavanagh (Auditor).

Committee: M. Boyd, M. Dillon, U. Norton, R. Cannon, B. Dooley, J.Gibb, P. Gillies, R. Johnstone, D. Keenan, M. Lewis, and L. Carter. MATTERS ARISING Total membership increased from 214 last year to 284, of which 206 were single members and 78 joint (family section). Average attendance at weekly socials was 88.87 (78.5 last year). The standard charge for Sunday coaches has had to be increased from £1.30 to £1.50 per person. This is to alleviate the recent losses that have been made on coach trips. The average attendance on coach trips for rambles was 29.03 for the year. This has dropped off recently but it is hoped that numbers will increase at this time of the year as has happened in past years.

A discussion arose as to whether rambles should be subsidised from profits made at the weekly socials. No firm decision was made but it was suggested that the admission charge for the weekly social be increased by 5p to help cover the cost of hiring coaches. No doubt this will be discussed by the Committee.

INVITATION WALK IC WENSLEY DALE 19TH OCTOBER.

There were only 29 people on the coach, despite delaying the departure until 10.30 for any late comers.

After a 20 min. stop at the motorway cafe, we moved on to Hawes in the heart of Wensleydale in the North Yorkshire Riding. The weather was dry with sunny periods. We stopped the coach at Hardrow where it was necessary to pay a twopenny toll at the "Green Dragon" Pub so as to walk on private land to see a pretty waterfall called Hardrow Force. We arrived at the pub just after 2.30 so no time was lost on "liquid lunches". The waterfall was well worth a visit as it is the largest unbroken downfall of water south of Scotland - some 360 ft. - and resembles a shiny sheet.

Pete Kennedy and Richie Cannon were bold enough to go round the back of the waterfall, after I said they could, provided they took care as some of the rocks were slippery. They said it was enjoyable to see a waterfall from behind and feel the sensation of the power of the water in the downpour.

From here we moved gradually uphill on to the Pennine Way and after a stop for lunch, we decided to cross the valley over a moor. Somebody spotted some bulls. Fortunately they were young but we were still a bit scared. Walking down by a stream we came to an electrified fence. Apparently Barrie Dooley touched the cable and had a bit of a shock. We travelled up a hill to a road which took us down to Hawes where the coach was due to meet us but was not about.

about However, Hawes is only a small village and a quick search foon found the coach.

With everybody on board we made for the "Boot and Shoe" pub in Lancaster arriving about 7.20 p.m. We had hired a hall here, which we had free of charge because of a mix-up of dates. Barry Dooley brought his record player and we had a disco in the hall, with many ramblers taking the floor after changing their clothes.

Steak buns were ordered but their late arrival delayed our departure until 9.20. However everybody was enjoying the dancing and records and we arrived back in Liverpool only a little while after schedule.

Many thanks to Mick Maple, the coach driver who served behind the bar for a short time and who ordered the steak buns. It would have been nicer if more people were there. ALAN JOYNSON. OVERHEARD:-

"Think of the earth's 750 million year history since the pre-Cambrian period as being recorded on a time-lapse camera which took one picture a year. Watching this film at the speed of 24 frames a second - i.e. 24 years a second - we would see the entire history of the earth unfold before us ... but the film would take A WHOLE YEAR TO RUN.

Man would not figure clearly in that year-long film until Neanderthal man was seen at 11.30 p.m. on the very last day -December 31st.

Only in the last quarter hour of that 365 day film would we come to the dawn of civilisation - Egypt, Babylon, the early Greeks the Romans. At 11.48 p.m. and 43 seconds on the film's final day the Christian era begins. With 21 seconds of the film to go, Colombus has just sailed across the Atlantic Ocean and discovered a new world. Just under 10 secs. to go and Capt. Cook has arrived in Australia.

Australia Then we begin to see a swarm of human beings occuring all over the globe. We see the effect of their work; during the last few seconds we see spreading out over the lands, roads and rails of steel. great cities forming, erosion occuring, streams become muddy, the oceans receive the silt from the land. And man has cleared so much of the surface of the globe, taken so little care of it that you see great scare appearing everywhere ... In the last second of the film there are some bright flashes, the first atomic bombs. Then the film ends with more signs of man ... Smog over the cities ... satellites and moonships.

All this great development occurs in the last 21 secs. of this film, which should make us wonder how we as human beings can survive another 21 seconds. In this kind of time scale some of our "inexhaustible" materials such as iron ore or bauxite would serve us another 10 seconds".

At the General Meeting of 10.11.75, the following were coopted to serve on the Sub-Committee:-

Colette Morgan, Marie Kearney, and Alan Joynson. "BROCOLI " Please note that the booking of this group has been postponed to the 18th December for the Xmas party. This amends the information given in the "Socialite".

CONGRATULATIONS to She lagh Bradley & Richie Johnstone on their recent engagement.

Destination Dolomites

(Intrepid adventurers; Frank Fitzmaurice, John Watkins, Paul Warner, Bob Banks and Barry Dooley)

After a trouble free sailing, our first night was spent in a camp site in Calais where the following day we rendezvoused with Paul Warner, then the show was on the road.

Through the mundane villages of north east France (where the scenery was left to be desired) we sped in a hired Volkswagen mini-bus, jampacked with Moneysave food.

Passing by way of the town of Liege in Belgium, we attained the border with Germany where the autobahn replaced the motorway. Our initial resting place was Aachen, proclaimed Aix-la-Chapelle by the French, renowned for its medicinal springs, believed to be some of the hottest in Europe. The intake of the local beverage was much to our liking where it was a frequent sight to observe the entire family gathered around the table having a fine old time. Nevertheless, what was to become our final "nightcap" lapsed into the early morning whereupon a Publican and wife entertained us with their "brew", and flatly refused payment for it, also not forgetting the character by the name of Mathias who kept John on his toes with a boxing spree.

Off again along the autobahn we travelled, the five of us, bypassing the outskirts of Cologne, likewise Frankfurt, Koblenz, Mainz, Mannhein not exactly picturesque countryside, flat and uninteresting in fact.

That same night was spent in Munich on a well-equipped camp site full of amenities. Certainly A₊ must be given compared with the shameful sites one endures at home. Munich, capital of Bavaria, encompassing neo-classicism, and noble vistas is a properous, gregarious city.

The most distinguished scenery without question we all agreed was along the approaches to Garmisch, 2,362 ft. up in the Bavarian Alps, situated in the broad flat valley of the Loisach, bordered by sheer mountains which offer every facility for winter sports.

Then came Innsbruck which we took to our bosom. The ancient capital of Tyrol situated in the wide valley of Inn, commands a view of beautiful high Alpine scenery above well populated mountainside. Still largely late Gothic, Innsbruck displays the old Tyrolean style of architecture with beautiful oriels and doorways and narrow house frontages. Handsome buildings of the Renaissance Baroque period besides Rococo periods remind one of the grandeur of the city under Habsburg rule. Here we frequented a certain bar in the town where two characters joined our company. One gave us a recital of a Hungarian rapsody and display of a bullet wound in his leg, whilst the other kept greeting everyone with a hearty slap on the back accompanied by a knuckle-crushing handshake, and hearty laugh.

We journeyed across the Brenner pass (used as far back as Roman times), the lowest most important road between Austria and Italy and into north east Italy, changing once again our Austrian Schillings into Lira. Chiusa (Klausen), being our destination point that night, was an eye-catching town deep in the Isarco Valley characterised by Tyrolean-style architecture corbelled houses painted with frescoes and wrought iron signs in the street.

Also we must not forget Sabiona Monastery above Chiusa with its remaining medieval fortifications. We all paid a jaunting visit there one afternoon for curiosity as this nonaster; looked so overtowering especially when spotlighted at night. It was a sight-seeing must, although to reach the top for an awe-inspiring view meant a climb up countless steps.

Bolzano due to its proximity to the Dolomites became our second stopping-point. The town itself is bilingual and in the elder part rather German in character. Its valleys produce great quantities of wine and fruit as we observed and one has a magnificent view of the snow-capped Dolomites including an intervening plateau of good farming land.

Ortisei became the third vantage point for the Dolonites lying in the magnificent surrounds of the Val-Gardena. Ortisei is an important's resort strung out among fir woods where many summer visitors and especially skiers dwell for a time. The local inhabitants, who are attached to their traditions, speak the old Latin dialect. Many are Woodcarvers, whose beautiful figuratives depict mainly religious imagery.

Leaving official photographer Bob Banks behind at his request (as he only had running shoes) the four of us began the initial excursion to the Bassio Lungo a colossal and spectacular mass which can be admired from all sides. The volkswagen, with Frank at the helm, protocoded along the narrow confined nountain road at some 3000 ft. The summit of our alimb would be well over 9000 ft. This we achieved after nany hours slogging over rugged and grandiose line stone predominantly pink in colour. The nature of the soil and the effects of erosion have created a distinctive landscape; steep rugged rocks take the forms of towers, belfries, or dones with gentler slopes at their feet which are covered with alpine pastures connifers and crops.

Shortage of space requires a brief report of Paul Warner's mishap on our descent. I will slip the preliminaries and just say that no sufficient acknowledgment of Gratitude will ever suffice when mentioning the courageous part the Italian Alpine Corps (including the Austrian Mountain Guides) who by chance were staying at the mountain cabin, enacted in retrieving Paul's exhausted body from the precipice he was trapped upon for numerous hours. Mention must also be made of the vigil of John and Frank after they had pinpointed the approx. spot where Paul lay, and their descent down to the valley to fotch the cradle stretcher that was to transport Paul down the rocky incline to the jeep awaiting him for Bolzano General Hospital. The hospital deserves an accelade for their skilful care of Paul, especially the Italian doctor, under whom he was confined to bed for twenty cays and was thus absent for the rest of the holiday. Cattolica became our following port of call situated south of Rimini, where ach resort continues to succeed each other in an almost unbroken line. We visited the hotel where two female ramblers were staying and took the opportunity of taking a shower there. After a night of torrential rain we decided to visit Venice.

Venice fanous the world over with it's assemblages such as St. Mark's Squa re, it's covered galleries that shelter fanous cafes frequented by many a literary gerius, The Bridge of Sighs dated from about 1600 owes its name to the lamentations of prisoners who were conducted across it to their place of execution. Casanova was incarcerated there.

Well, after leaving unforgettable Venice the remaining places we passed through were Innsbruck (Austria), Lichtenstein, Zurich, Basle (Switzerland), Gernany along the Autobahn across the Rhine into Strasbourg where we were unfortunately unable to contact Jose as she was away on a ski-ing holiday.

To conclude the holiday I wish to record my thanks to John and Frank for their perseverance at the wheel of the mini-bus, not forgetting Bob's contribution, undoubtedly the rambler's undisputed photographer of the year.

RAMBLER'S DIARY.

As the darker nights are with us, it is now more important that rambles get under way earlier. The committee have decided that coaches will depart no later than 10.15 a.m. to make the most of the daylight.

Ramblers are therefore strongly advided to aim to arrive at St. John's Lane for 10 a.m.

Whilst on the subject, it is a great pity that so many Club members only support the Thursday socials. If they tried a few rambles now and then, they will derive both social and physical benefits and furthermore they will be supporting the club in a very real way. So do step out more. The rambles are not so difficult and there is a choice of walks to suit all.

NEWS DESK ROUND-UP.

The following items have reached our newsdesk. Family Section rambler, Dick Dinsdale, recently found alive and well on a Welsh nountain ledge, after being extricated from a 10 foot block of ice, has reported that he has a lot to say to the leader of the Snowdon ramble in 1959.

Pothole expert, Fred Beanpole, was invited recently to lecture on potholing one evening at the Club, but did not arrive. Unconfirmed reports say that on the way he stumbled into an open manhole and has not been seen since.

Frank Fitznaurice is reported to be organising a Jarrow march from Otterspool prom. Marchers should bring boots, packed lunches and flasks; cloth caps and banners will be provided, but waistcoasts and clogs are optional says Frank.

Our return visit to the Burton-on-Trent breweries has had to be postponed whilst stocks are replenished.

Following his recent accident, Paul Warner has been offered a part in a Christmas pantonime as Long John Silver. He says it is a rum part to play.

Financier, Brian Keller, has flown hone after making a killing on Wall Street. We understand the F.B.I. is investigating.

Finally, Alan Joynson has confirmed that he is not the missing. Lord Lucan. His true identity has been a talking point for some time.

Your contributions for the next 'tongue-in-cheek' news report would be appreciated (provided they are not too outrageous)

RAMBLERS "KNOW YOUR COUNTRYSIDE" THE CENTRAL PENNINES

Location between the Stainmore Bass and the Craven Fault.

Geological Features composed chiefly of carboniferous linestone (so called because it belongs to the same series of rocks as the coal measures) with a thin capping of sandstone and shale.

Over the greater part of the area the capping of sandstone has been worn away, leaving extensive platforms of almost pure linestone which is dissolved by rainwater. The solvent action has naturally proceeded most rapidly along the joints and lines of weakness in rocks. Consequently, in many places, the surface consists of "clints" or detached blocks of linestone, separated by deep narrow crevices, following the joints. No surface water is to be seen on the limestone plateaus, for the streams, when coming into contact with the limestone outcrop, disappear gradually down water-sinks or plunge down deep swallow-holes.

One of the nost remarkable swallow-holes is Gaping Ghyll a welllike abyss on the flank of Ingleborough (Yorks) where a small stream of the Lune basin falls for 365 feet to a subterranean cavern, said to be the 7th largest in the world.

In some cases the underground streams actually cross each other at different levels and potholes are numerous.

Another interesting feature is the prevalence of caves such as the fanous Victoria Cave at Settle (Yorks) in which the remains of prehistoric man have been found, or the White Scar Vavern at Ingleton, from which an underground passage runs to a beautiful lake in the very heart of the nountain.

Farning the poor quality of the soil renders the region suitable only for the rearing of sheep and goats.

Rambles the Club has not neglected this region as rambles to Malham, Ingleton and Great Whernside have figured in recent fixtures.

POT HOLE NTS STONE UNDERGROUND CAVER STREAM OLD ROCK PLATFORM OF HARD SHOWING FEATURES OF AREA DIAGRAM

To mark the return of hardy Rambler Brian Keller, from the States, I reproduce below a verse from a former newsletter:

OOLY BACKS EYE-VIEW (To be read with heavy Wigan accent) Sample at all

I went out wt' Ramblers last Sunday To t'lakes on a coach, it were grand, A bag full o' butties and I were on t'way With a pair o' pit boots in me 'and.

A lad with red hair seemed the big boss, He came round collecting the cash, But it turned out as leader of walk was, A big lad, called Brian, with 'tash.

All tilads on the coach they were joking, Until it were time to get off, Then one made out he were choking, And another developed a cough.

But Brian he stood for no fooling And made it quite plain right away As it stated quite clearly in t' ruling That no one should stop in t'cafe

We set off but leader were crafty He moved himself right to he back By now it were getting quite drafty, I was glad I'd remembered me mac!

On reaching the top of a mountain, Leader cried, "Stop for a bit", And I fell to the ground with a sharp pain Like a cowboy who's just been hit.

For what seemd like no more than a minute We struggled to gasp in sme air Then like hare be ing chased by a whippet, We were off with no time to spare.

Then darkness descended and spread her black veil And t'lasses began to get scared, "This never would happen in Kirkdale" A young lady's voice declared.

After stumbling for what seemd two weeks And getting soaked through to the skin, Colour returned to t'ma jority's cheeks When Erian said "I'll get 'em in". by Nobbut A. Grandlad.

IN A recent forthright statement, Pope PAUL made it clear that the ordination of women is an impossibility and discussion ofit. completely futile.

This at first sight seems unfair to women.Consider, however the following interesting quotes, which clarify the Church's position. Dr. Eric Mansell(distinguished Anglican theological) "If women want to be as like men as possible, that can only mean that manhood is essentially superior to womenhood. This is not a view that any Christian should accept; its basic absurdity is seen in the recent demand by a member of the Women's Liberation Movement that women should refuse to bear children any more and that scientists should immediately perfect the technique of growing babies in test tubes"

-Archbishop Robert J. Dwyer(Of the U.S.A.)"The refusal to recognize the difference of the sexes while asserting, indeed proclaiming their equality is of a piece with much of the woolley thinking that passes for philosophy today. Yet the most obvious thing about men & women is that while sharing the same humanity absolutely equal in God's sight they share and posses it in different ways, adapted to different functions.

If women insist upon total non-differentiation, then surely men have a just complaint against the divine ordering of things inasmuch as they are radically incapable of bearing children? If it happens that in the Christian economy the priesthood is reserved for the male of the species (and there can be no doubt that Our Lord deliberately instituted and orderd it so) there is no injustice done to woman, no right denied her.

For to speak of the priesthood as a right inhering in human nature is to mis understand its very nature. It is a function institut -ed by God Himself to which men only are called, not by right but by God's choice. The Church could no more change or disturb this divine ordering of things than she could change the dogma of the Trinity or repeal the Real Presence. Not even sheer necessity, the dearth of vocations could justify her in modifying it"..

Significantly, none of the 12 apostles were women but Our Lord called women to follow Him in other ways.

LETTER FROM GERMANY: Theresia Griechisch writes: "After spending:

a few days with my parents, I am now back to my studies... I still look back on our week in Skye & my final days with the Ramblers with much pleasure as I enjoyed it very much. The atmosphere was very friendly .. I still would like to remain in contact with the Ramblers, even if this has become more difficult since Clare went to Orleans...so please would you provide me with Club news from time to time? I honestly would appreciate this very much. I want to thank all Ramblers for the friendly welcoming & I hope to see you all well and happy some time next year -- "heresia." NOTE: arrangements have been made to send the Newsletter but obviously letters would be appreciated. Theresia's address is-

714, Ludwigsburg, Studentenwohnheim,4/6, STUTTGART,WEST GERMANY. It won't matter if you don't "Sprechen sie Deutsch" so drop a line! LETTER FROM AUSTRALIA: Albert James Downing, one of the "old boy" ramblers has written a lengthy letter from Victoria where he is now living in which he describes his round the world journey to visit his sick father in Birkdale in Southport. He mearly got on the wrong Jumbo Jet when changing at Hongkong which was going to South Africa. He writes of the lovely views he had from the window of his plane including a spectacular view of a snowwhite volcano in the Phillipines.

He only had one week here but managed to come down to the club on June 19th and sat by Gerry and Cyril at the door. He is due back in England again on the 20th December, and says that if there is a walk on the 21st December he will go on it.

He asks your prayers for a safe flight. MANY THANKS to Barry Dooley for printing this Newsletter and for loaning his stereo yet again on the last Keswick Weekend. About 50 people went. The Saturday night disco in the hotel was "really groovy". The next KESWICK WEEKEND will probably be on the 19th to the 21st March 1976.

GEN VERDE CONCERTS - What are they? Ramblers may have seen posters in the club advertising the Liverpool Concert and may be wondering what it is all about. Briefly, the new Generation Movement ("Gen" for short) is a Christian Youth Movement, formed 9 years ago and is now one of the main movements of its kind in the world and is active in all 5 continents. The Movement is interdenominational and ecumenical and has received the full approval and support of the highest authorities in the Roman Catholic Anglican, Lutheran, Orthodox and other churches.

In Loppiano, a village near Florence, a new Christian city is being built and here about 500 young people and families from 4 40 countries commit themselves to the expression of mutual love through their daily lives. From among them the Gen Verde has been formed from 11 nations touring many European countries expressing in movement, words and music the Christian ideal. Concerts are being held in Liverpool at the Philharmonic Hall, Nov. 19th -8 p.m. Warrington - The Parr Hall, Palmyra Square - Nov.14th 7.30 p.m. Tickets available from Diane Williams, Tel.No. 228/1252.
